Gen. Mills says the middle west militia could be brought east for the maneuvers and that some of the militia of the southern states might be sent to the border to maneuver with the regulars there.

A program of unusual interest is under preparation for the annual memorial services February 16, in Arlington, in men:ory of the dead of the battleship Maine, sunk in Havana harbor, February 15, 1899.

The exercises will begin with a parade in the city at 2 o'clock. Secretary Daniels and Secretary Garrison will speak, and the Marine, Cavalry and Engineer's Band will furnish music. President Wilson has been invited. A flower-laden boat, manned by sailors, will float down the river, and flowers will be strewn on the waters of the Potomac by the young women

Col. John McElroy is chairman and Capt. J. Walter Mitchell is secretary of the committee in charge of the memorial services.

The motor cycle is as valuable to the army as an airship, and more practicable, cheaper and faster than a horse, according to Brig. Gen. George P. Scriven, chief signal officer, who has advised Congress that the army should have a "motor cycle corp." Gen. Scriven says that motor cycles are excellent for delivery of telagraph messages, and could be used to advantage in general field work. He recommands the purchase of several machines for use by the army.

After eight months' operation of the new Quartermaster Corps, Gen. J. B. Aleshire, in his annual report expresses the opinion that the system of consolidation of the three military supply corps has been a success.
